

GOVERNORS LEAVE KNOWING MORE OF NEEDS OF CAPITAL

Western Visitors Shown a Few Things More Than Sights of City.

Not only happier, but wiser, men, the Western governors and their party departed from the Capital this morning to spend the day in Baltimore.

The Western visitors know more today about Washington and its needs than they ever knew before and, in the opinion of the members of the Chamber of Commerce and Board of Trade, who entertained them all yesterday afternoon, the Capital has many new and influential friends.

The entertainment committee of the two Washington organizations showed the visitors over the city, pointed out its proposed development according to the plans of the park commission, explained the needs of the Capital and made the governors more familiar with their National Capital than they were when they arrived yesterday afternoon.

Welcomed to "Their" City.
"Welcome to your city," was the keynote of the only speech made to the visitors by the Washington men. This was made by Henry E. P. Macfarland, at the Commercial Club, where the party gathered late in the afternoon after the tour of the city in automobiles. Washington was shown to the governors as their city, and their interest in its affairs and development was aroused.

From the moment the party arrived at Union Station at 1 o'clock until midnight, when the reception at the National Press Club was concluded, the governors were entertained; first to the Capitol for luncheon with the State delegations in Congress, then in the automobiles of the Chamber of Commerce and Board of Trade to the White House for a short reception by President Taft; then through the Mall, the residential part of the city, Rock Creek Park, and back to the Commercial Club, where a reception was held from 4:30 until 6 o'clock; to the White House for dinner with the President, and finally to the National Press Club. This program and itinerary filled the eleven hours the Western visitors were awake in Washington.

Tired of Day's Program.
Too tired to go back to Baltimore last night, they sought rest at the Washington hotels, and departed this morning for another day's entertainment in the Monumental City.

Keen disappointment was expressed both by the visitors and their guests at the inability of the railroads to bring the special train carrying exhibits of the Western States to Washington. Washington was forced to be the only city upon the itinerary of the party which was denied a glimpse of the special train furnished by Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern railroad, and it was all because the cars were too large to enter the tunnels under Baltimore.

The Eastern trip has about been completed. From Baltimore the special train will be taken to Philadelphia and New York, and thence back to St. Paul, where the travelers will arrive December 16.

South's Governors
Meet Westerners
In Baltimore Today

BALTIMORE, Dec. 8.—The South met the West in Baltimore today. For this is governors' day. The Monumental City entertained six governors from Southern States, nine governors from the West, including Gov. Judson Harmon, of Ohio, a Democratic Presidential possibility. Speaker Champ Clark, Congressman Underwood, of Alabama, and scores of the chief officers of the greatest transportation lines of the United States were among the city's guests. The distinguished visitors arrived on special trains, escorted by some of Maryland's most representative citizens, and were met at railroad stations by other men of prominence in State and city affairs. The Southern executives, Governor Harmon, and the transportation officials came to Baltimore to hold a conference upon the subject of immigration into the South. The Western "boomers" had in their train carloads of exhibits depicting the great industrial strides that wealthy and still growing sections of the Union is producing.

Charles Nagel, Secretary of Commerce and Labor, was one of the chief figures that accompanied a delegation from Washington. The large party visited the Fifth Maryland Regiment Armory. At the armory Governor Crothers, of Maryland, welcomed the State's visitors. Former Gov. James H. Brady, of Idaho, responded to the toast. The delegation later reviewed the city from the top of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad building. Following this the governors boarded steamers and inspected the Baltimore harbor. Tonight a banquet will be held in honor of the visiting officials.

David Had "Blues."

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—Bishop Samuel Fallows of the Methodist Episcopal Church told his fellow churchmen that David was in the blues when he wrote that three score and ten was life's span and asserted that he meant 120 years.

NICHOLSON'S CASE MAY BE SUBJECTED TO CONGRESS PROBE

Rear Admiral's Friends Resent His Deposition From Navigation Bureau.

It was learned today that there is serious talk of a Congressional inquiry into the deposition of Rear Admiral Nicholson as chief of the Bureau of Navigation. Unless the President consents to reopen the matter there is almost certain to be a row over it, and the row will come from a quarter usually friendly to the Administration. The fact that Representatives Dalsell, Foss, and Weeks are leading the fight to have the admiral's case looked into shows that it is not a partisan matter. On the contrary, it is devoid of politics. The admiral is a Democrat, but the friends who have called on the President in his behalf are all Republicans and Administration Republicans at that.

A WASHINGTON MAN

—Invents a New Sport

It is to cost only 10c, 15c, or 25c, and it's to be "demonstrated" here tomorrow by the inventor. On Basement Floor. Read what he has to say:

CHILDREN, I have invented for you A NEW SPORT, a wonderfully fascinating, strenuous, athletic out door sport, being a whip, an apparatus and an ever spinning top all in one. I spent three years and a small fortune to get it up for you and, now it is perfected and put on the market in ninety-seven varieties of the prettiest golf-tops and shinnytops you ever saw. I want you to give it a fair trial and, if you find it allright, to play it every year. I called it 'Flip Flop', also composed a march 'Flip and Flop', for you to play and sing. Your friend: Hans Funnybump.

Dressed Dolls

25c 50c $1.00

Worth 50c to $2

What with the presentation of picture books, the "demonstrations" of toys, and the beauty of the dressed dolls, all juvenile Washington seems to be coming to the Greater Palais Royal just now. Some of the dolls get "loved" a little too strenuously. Not hurt to hurt—we look after that—but mused a bit. Thus Tomorrow's Sale at 25c to $1.00 instead of 50c to $2.00.

The $1.00 Dolls Too Good

Others at 10% Discount

The size and beauty of the Undressed Dolls here at $1.00 is proving harmful to the sale of the more expensive. For tomorrow one-tenth will be deducted from the price marked on the doll that's more than $1.00. Come—go the second floor—and learn that the finest of the most expensive French and German Dolls are marked at prices less than prevailing. Remember that one-tenth is to be deducted from these less than usual prices.
